MEETING REGISTRATION CATEGORIES

ACNP Members

Members

All ACNP Members and Fellows (including Emeritus of these categories) may invite one Invited Guest or one Trainee. There are two ways to request an invitation. You can either invite your guest during the registration process online or you can send an email to the ACNP Executive Office (acnp@acnp.org) with the name and email address of your invited guest. Annual Meeting material will then be sent to the invited individual. Additionally, there are two invitation banks available for members to invite an early career colleague or an underrepresented minority. To request an invitation from one of the banks you must email the Executive Office.

General Invitation Bank: This bank is fixed with 100 invitations that members may request to use for an early career researcher who is within 10 years of their last training or someone with a first time R award or K award. Invitees from this bank may present a poster.

Diversity Invitation Bank: This invitation bank allows ACNP members to offer an additional meeting invitation to a scientist from one of the following underrepresented minority groups: Pacific Islander, African-American, Native American, or Hispanic. Members who request the invitation should vouch for the minority status of the scientist they are inviting. Invitees from this bank may present a poster.

Program Overview/Statement of Need

The Annual Meeting of the American College of Neuropsychopharmacology is designed to meet the educational needs of ACNP members and invited non-member colleagues. Current data suggests that in any given year more than 20% of the U.S. adult population suffers from a diagnosable mental disorder. Four of the ten leading causes of disability in the U.S. are psychiatric disorders, including schizophrenia, depression, bipolar disorder, and obsessive-compulsive disorder. ACNP members have been among the leaders in identifying underlying mechanisms for these disorders and developing new treatment strategies. The desired results for the meeting are that ACNP members and their invited guests learn of the latest developments in preclinical and clinical research being performed by their colleagues and world experts in order to 1) enhance understanding of the neurobiological bases of current best practice approaches, 2) enhance understanding of neurobiological and clinical science underpinnings in development of novel therapeutic strategies, particularly for treatment-resistant forms of illness, and 3) lead to improvements in study designs for proposed clinical and basic studies.

Target Audience:

The target audience includes members of the American College of Neuropsychopharmacology and invited experts. The audience includes physicians, psychologists, and basic neuroscientists from across the United States as well as Europe and Asia. The physicians include a number of specialties, with psychiatrists representing the majority of attendees, and neurologists next most common. Psychologists include clinical psychologists and neuropsychologists.

Learning Objectives:

After participating in this CME activity, participants should be able to:

- Describe and discuss how the results of recent or ongoing basic science and/or clinical studies of psychiatric disorders in your area of interest or a related area impact your current or potential future research projects.
- Describe and discuss how you will change or modify a current approach or strategy in your current or potential future research projects based on what you learned from the results of recent or ongoing basic science and/or clinical studies of psychiatric disorders in your area of interest or a related area.
- Describe and discuss how recent progress in identifying genetic variations that are risk factors for the development of psychiatric disorders affect your current or potential future research projects.

Americans with Disabilities Act

It is the policy of Vanderbilt University School of Medicine not to discriminate against any person on the basis of disabilities. If you feel you need services or auxiliary aids mentioned in this act in order to fully participate in this continuing education activity, please call the Executive Office at 615-324-2360 or send an email to acnp@acnp.org
